EUROPEAN HOTELS

Art meets space. The young architect Isa Stein transformed the traditional Spitz Hotel into a work of art. 73 rooms reflect different layouts. 80 gigantic images are shown on seven floors, each of them dedicated to one of Linz's major art institutions. Rooms double up as meeting room and bedroom and can be divided by a sliding glass element. Long stay guests stay in rooms with concealed kitchenettes. Experimental flourishes can be found throughout the bathroom designs. Local artists became part of the project through light installations and design objects. Linz and its people are the main theme of the Spitz. Guests are invited to enjoy the individuality and charm of the new hotel concept.
