In this project we focused mostly on the renovation of the entrance hall. The substance of the building was showing low ceilings and small rooms. In our concept we tried to stretch the room by using a lightening ceiling and opened up the space by pulling down a wall in order to integrate the reception desk. To give the room a new character, we used some images in main locations. The view gets navigated on the central points and not distracted by the existing substance of the building.

In nearly every room, the former tenant had washing slots, which were not needed anymore. In order to keep them as a storage place, we again placed some sliding doors with an image in front of the slots.

The main invention for this project was the use of light and images.
